San Francisco, CA (March 12, 2018) – Grube Brown & Geidt LLP (GBG) is proud to announce that Jennifer Svanfeldt has joined its growing ranks as a Partner in the firm’s San Francisco office. Jennifer joins GBG from Morgan, Lewis & Bockius, where her practice focused on all aspects of labor and employment law, including counseling and defending clients in employment discrimination and retaliation cases and wage and hour class, collective and representative actions. Jennifer will strengthen GBG’s formidable roster of class action, trial and appellate attorneys.

“Jennifer is an experienced employment lawyer with a reputation for excellence. Her arrival heralds the continued expansion of GBG as a preeminent complex and trial litigation boutique. GBG is the firm of reference for clients seeking top-tier but cost effective labor and employment advice and representation,” said partner Lisa Brown.

Jennifer represents clients across a diversity of sectors, including telecommunications, automotive, software, technology, financial services and consumer services. In addition to litigation, Jennifer advises on human resource matters such as discipline and discharge, internal investigations, arbitration, wage and hour, and workplace policies, procedures and training.

GBG brings the excellence of a nationally-recognized employment practice to a boutique environment, where it can provide world-class service to clients on a cost effective and flexible platform, respond quickly with direct, informed, and practical legal advice, take clients through crises with confidence, and execute a winning litigation strategy. With the addition of Jennifer, GBG continues to expand its San Francisco presence and looks forward to extending its relationship with existing clients and expanding into new industries.

GBG is certified as Women Owned by the Women's Business Enterprise National Council.
